REDD BLOCK IV
1983 activities

During 1983 the proposed mine remained on hold due to the depressed Uranium market. Plans remain to sink or raise a shaft on site as soon as the market rebounds. An interim reclamation project was done during the spring of 1983. This included the drilling and seeding of crested wheat grass over approximately 3 acres (pond area and plant area). Work was done to prevent erosion due to wind and water and to act as an additional grazing area for local livestock.
